Hello Everyone

END OF YEAR CELEBRATIONS
There has been some discussion amongst staff, students and parents regarding the format of the Year 12 awards evening at the end of the year. Previously the Graduation Dinner was held late in the school year after the VCE results were released. Some students and parents felt that the focus on an individual’s results detracted from an evening that should be about celebrating the students’ time in Kurnai College.

At the end of this year it has been suggested that there should be two ceremonies. The first, a dinner to celebrate the time that the Year 12 students have spent at Kurnai College, would be held shortly after the completion of the VCE exams. The second, an awards evening for both Year 11 and 12 students, would occur in late December when the VCE results have been released.

If you would like to comment on this suggestion please don’t hesitate to contact the Precinct Campus on 5132 3800.

AUF WIEDERSEHEN TO MALIN
Malin Freytag spent her last day at the Precinct Campus on Tuesday. For the past 6 months Malin, from Luneburg in northern Germany, has been studying VCE alongside local students. Her outgoing personality, willingness to be involved in all aspects of school life and her excellent English meant that she settled quickly into the school and made friends easily. Just before she left she spoke about how much she had enjoyed her time at the school and living in this community.

Last week Malin played a leading role in the Theatre Studies performance of Rated X and I think that this was a fitting highlight on which to end her stay with us. By the time this is published Malin will be back with her family in Luneberg but I know that she has made strong friendships here that will last for a lifetime. We wish her well for the future.

EXAMS
All Year 11 students will be undertaking exams from Friday 7th June to Friday 14th June. We urge all our students to prepare well for these exams and to make sure that they give themselves every opportunity to perform well in them. It will be a stressful time for those sitting the exams but preparing for them in a focussed and organised manner will reduce a bit of the stress that comes naturally at exam time. All Year 11 students attended exam preparation sessions at Monash University over the past couple of weeks and these sessions gave valuable hints on proper exam preparations. The lead up to exams is a time to really touch base with every teacher to make sure all aspects of the unit are understood. It is also a time to take advantage of the time that every teacher offers to students for assistance. Wednesday afternoons are a perfect time to do that little bit more in preparation for the Mid Year Exams. We encourage all students to take advantage of this time.

SRC
Recently we met and had lunch with the SRC representatives from the Precinct Campus at Monash University cafeteria. It was a time well spent listening to the ideas and concerns that the students brought to the table. Often we look at things from a completely different perspective from our students and it sometimes comes as a surprise that issues we don’t think important are very important to our students. A number of these concerns are being met and those will be brought up at the relevant forums in the near future. We’d like to thank the SRC group for its input into improving life at the Precinct.

We are looking for host families to provide paid long term accommodation for overseas students (aged 15 – 18), predominantly from China and Japan.

These students provide an enriching cultural exchange experience for your family and will give you a chance to develop international friendships and understandings.

CREATIVE WRITING CLASS
Corissa’s creative writing class has been running Tuesday lunchtimes since the beginning of term two and some interesting ideas are appearing in the writing that is being produced. If you’d like to come along and join in, come to the AV room of a Tuesday. Come and get involved!

THEATRE STUDIES
On Thursday 23rd and Friday 24th of May, Unit 3 Theatre Studies presented their class production of ‘Rated X’ to two public audiences. Both performances received rave reviews from all who attended and a standing ovation on the final night. Big congratulations are due to all involved!

Students worked on preparing this production for public performance over the past few months, including giving up some of their weekends to ensure the show was a success. This also included working on all aspects of producing a performance for public display, including lighting, sound, set design, costume, makeup, publicity and multimedia, as well as acting in the piece. The play itself was an inspiring and motivational piece set in in the present day and dealing with the subject of teenage mental health issues, something of which both the students and I believed to be an extremely important topic that needed to be addressed in a public forum.

The performance saw students take on a number of colourful, and at times, confronting characters, portraying them with conviction and compassion, and also involved them in singing and performing music live on stage; an outstanding effort by all.

I would like to take this opportunity to once again congratulate and thank all students who were involved for their dedication and outstanding performances. You have all made me and the College very proud.

EXAM PREPARATION – IT’S NEVER TOO EARLY
With the end of year exams and the GAT around the corner I thought it would be timely to remind you all of some key resources that you can find on the VCAA website to help you with your VCE exam preparation.

1. The VCAA exam timetable – you can find when the end of years exams are on. The October/November Written Examinations 2013 VCE Examination period is Wednesday 30 October – Friday 22 November. The 2013 VCE end-of-year written examination timetable will be published in May.

2. VCE exams navigator – you will receive a hard copy of this from us. It is a very detailed document which outlines everything from examination hall rules, to equipment you can bring in, etc, etc. Very important and very useful...

3. Access copies of last year’s GAT. I have written about the GAT and the importance about it but it is in your best interests to know what it is, how it is assessed and more importantly, take it seriously.

4. VCE Exam front covers - these are published on the VCAA website so you can learn more about the number of marks allocated, the materials you can bring in etc, etc. The usual disclaimer exists where the VCAA reserves the right to change the number of marks, pages etc, etc but it gives you a pretty reliable indicator that you can use to help your preparation.

5. Past VCE exams – Past exams are a fantastic way to learn about the content and how it has been assessed previously. Whilst many commercial providers sell trial exams you can get access to some wonderful questions for free here... a word of warning though... make sure if there has been a change in study design that you take this into consideration as not all questions in previous exams will be relevant in a new study design.

6. VCE Examiners reports - Here you can learn from previous students and find out how students performed on questions and what was required to get full marks. You can learn about areas that students struggled with and note that any area that students have notoriously struggled with can (and sometimes does) get re-assessed the following year.

Good luck with all your VCE exam preparations.

If you require any more information, please contact Bernadette Cropper, VCE Coordinator on 5132 3800 or email cropper.bernadette.b@edumail.vic.gov.au

GENERAL ACHIEVEMENT TEST – GAT  12th June.
10.00 a.m. - 1.15 p.m. (arrive at 9.30 a.m.)

What does it do?
The results of the GAT help to do 4 things...

1. Checks that internally marked assessments (SAC’s and SAT’s have been correctly marked) – it helps to form part of the process of statistical moderation of marks.

2. Validates externally assessed exams. Usually exams are marked twice by two different assessors (depending on the subject). If there is a significant discrepancy between the two assessment grades it can be marked a third time. If this result doesn’t correlate with your school’s indicative grade (their prediction on how they think you will go on your subject exam) and your predicted score (based on your GAT performance) then a flag is raised which gets your exam performance reviewed again. According to VCAA – your exam performance won’t go down, it could stay the same or actually increase.
2. If you are ill, injured or experience personal hardship around the exams you can apply for a Derived Examination Score – your GAT performance is important to help determine that Derived Examination Score. A poor GAT performance may affect this Derived Examination Score.

3. GAT results are accessible to Universities and Higher Education Institutions. Whilst these institutions aren’t meant to use these results to help select VCE graduates for their courses I want you to stop and think for a moment...

‘If you had 2 students who had identical ATAR scores for a particular course (and there was only 1 course position remaining), Student “A” performed very well on the GAT and Student “B” performed poorly...which student do you think would be offered the placement?’

Whilst VCAA hasn’t stated that Universities actually use the GAT results you can bet that if Universities have access to those results they could use that information for their “middle band” selection process. It’s simply another way of selecting the best possible candidate for that position.

So the bottom line is...

The GAT is important. You can review the structure and type of questions you could be asked in the “Written Communication” writing tasks – check out past copies of the GAT - talk to your VCE English teachers for some additional help and advice when preparing for this.

Obviously it is important that you give your best effort, and for the Yr 11’s it will be probably the first time that you have had to sit still for a 3 hour exam! That experience alone will be really beneficial for your future 3/4 exams and the Unit 3/4 VCE English exam next year.

Lastly...you can bring in an English or English Lote Dictionary (not thesaurus) but no electronic calculators or dictionaries are permitted. Bring plenty of blue, black pens along with pencils/eraser etc.

Good luck with it and always give it your best effort...you never know...you might just be the person that needs to draw upon your GAT performance for a derived exam score later this year!

If you require any more information, please contact Bernadette Cropper, VCE Coordinator on 5132 3800 or email cropper.bernadette.b@edumail.vic.gov.au

YEAR 11 EXAMS - 7th, 11th, 13th & 14th June
There will be no year 11 classes running during the exam period. However, all VCAL classes will run as normal during this exam period and year 11 students studying a 3 & 4 sequence will be required to attend their year 12 class as normal if they do not have an exam at that time.

PBS UPDATE
As a college we continue to work on the implementation of School Wide Positive Behaviour Support (PBS). PBS aims to improve the school environment with an emphasis on teaching expected behaviours. Last year saw the introduction at the Precinct campus of our matrix of expected behaviours. As this is a living document the PBS team with the assistance of the PBS Student Leaders are working to refine the matrix, with our goal being to make it as relevant as possible to all members of the school community.

Another aspect of PBS that continues to gain momentum is the Postcards. This reward system has teachers focus on recognising students doing the right thing and acknowledging students for demonstrating expected behaviours. The postcards focus on the College’s four pillars of excellence, engagement, work ethic and relationships. It has been great to see the new designs introduced this year, thanks to our art students. The team has received positive feedback from staff, students and parents about the postcard system and hope to see it continue to gain momentum throughout the year.

ITC students attended Upload you future at Monash University recently. The event contained many interactive sessions which provided students a real insight into ITC studies and careers. They learnt about careers featuring technology and got an understanding of what qualifications, skills and interests are vital to succeed in the fast-paced world of ICT.

Students learnt about the technology used by police, new advancements in the ITC industry and heard from local training provider Wonderworld Games. Students were also interested to hear from a local filmmaker who worked on the film the Hobbit. They learnt about the filming techniques, green screen techniques and the production required when making film.
